Still 'midst the gay I'm seen, I'm heard—
 My mother joys to hear me sing,
 Nor dreams that, like the wounded bird,
 I bear the shaft beneath the wing
 But in my bower,
 At twilight hour,
 I mourn o'er hopes forever set;
 And tears might tell,
 How much too well
 I love thee yet, I love thee yet!

darling, I assure you that I would have been filled with envy and jealousy had I discovered, when abroad, that my metropolitan brethren were here while I was absent. I would have traveled through Europe in the lonesome and melancholy spirit of Goldsmith's traveler:

“Still to my brother I would turn with ceaseless pain,
And drag at each remove a lengthening chain.”

“It is a great and rare privilege vouchsafed to a minister of God to have passed the fiftieth milestone of his priesthood. It is still a greater privilege, for which he should be devoutly thankful, to have spent these long years in innocence and blamelessness of life, with a record untarnished, and without a single stain to sully his sacerdotal garments.”

“But the blessing and happiness are still augmented, when the pilgrim of irreproachable life stands upon the summit of sixty summers, and from that eminence looks back and contemplates the great works accomplished in his day. ‘Quorum magna pars fui.’

When the gospel had been sung, Vicaire General Byrne stepped to the chancel rail and read a cablegram which was received from Rome this morning. It contained the congratulations of Pope Leo XIII. to the Archibishop Williams the Apostolic blessing of the suffragans, went into the pulpit and delivered the congratulatory message to his New England brethren and formally presented to the Archibishop their gift, then a chalice of gold which the Pope blessed and himself used on Easter Sunday. Henry Hotbank fought in a hurricane at catch weights, Sullivan winning a foul. The final bout was between Joe and Charley Costello. Costello did not last enough for Mullen, and the fight ended in the second round, Mullen winning.

to believe that they have since changed their minds or that they are any more hospitable now than they were then to the preposterous claims which they have once so overwhelmingly rejected.

THE PRIVILEGE OF JURY DUTY.

The flagrant abuses of the jury system evidenced in the trial of Inspector McLaughlin of New York have brought about a popular discussion of the importance and duty of jury service which is likely to do not a little good in the improvement of metropolitan courts. It would be well if other communities could profit by this stimulus without undergoing the opera bouffe experiences which were needed to cause the awakening of public interest there. For more than two weeks the trial of the Inspector was delayed during the selection of 12 jurors, and enough talemens were required to compose a half-dozen juries if the laws had not been intolerably disregarded. When the burlesque was over, some of the men chosen were so absolutely incapable of carrying out the responsible duty resting upon them that the trial ended in scenes or the barroom.

The jury system is openly abused in Massachusetts, and everybody must know it. The words of Judge Bartlett, who appeals to the honor and pride of the individual, to the well worth a wide hearing. "Keep it before the people," says the judge, "that jury duty is the highest form of patriotic service to the State. As the flower of our youth are proud to serve in the militia and go to the front when foreign enemies or domestic rioters raise their hands against the State, so should the best intellect and character of middle life and ripe maturity be ready to protect the lives and property of the citizens in the jury box." Sterling common sense is the striking note of this appeal, and yet we fear that too many pass by such sentiments without due consideration.

There are losses of time and money, to be sure, for many who serve upon juries, but the principle of their formation is one of the most important in all our free institutions, and upon it rests the success or failure of our entire judicial system. It is a rare occurrence, however, to see a really prominent man upon the jury. Prominence is not a criterion of integrity, but the absence of men who are known in all parts of their community from the jury box is an unfortunately general condition. In capital cases, it is the easiest thing in the world to escape duty by stating an objection to capital punishment, but in civil cases men tell lies with the freedom and boldness with which they would crack a joke. Although men are relieved from jury duty by the provisions of the law to make it very essential that the other honest and intelligent citizens should look upon it as their privilege to respond to the call made upon them.

Youngstown, O., for this is the city in question, are not adequate as those of the Detroit Tribune, which has our thanks for its editorial upon this domestic misfortune. It relates to a lady with the suggestive name of Triplett, Mrs. W. H. Triplett, who has secured an unlimited divorce because her husband compelled her to eat crow. There may have been other grounds for the decision, though none are of sufficient importance to be mentioned with the cruelty imposed by a diet of crow. Whether it was the species corvus cornix, corvus frugilagus, or corvus splendens which Mrs. Triplett was forced to eat, we do not know, and perhaps none but the most curious ornithologist would deem knowledge of this fact as essential in forming an opinion in the case.

We heartily endorse the suggestion of our Detroit contemporary that in this Ohio decision there can be found a precedent of greatest concern to the Democratic party. If all courts sustain this decision, it must be good law that a crow diet is sufficient cause for divorce, and as President Cleveland and his advisers have compelled the Democrats to eat crow ever since March 4, 1889, the case against the Administration is in every particular as good as that which Mrs. Triplett had against her husband. The most experienced chef in the world could not concoct more combinations of crow than this Administration has furnished. There has been baked crow, roast crow, fried crow, stewed crow, pickled crow, crisscrossed crow, crow on toast and so many other styles of crow that the Democrats who have had to swallow them have developed very distinct crow's feet beneath their sleepless eyes. The most lenient epicures cannot stand terrapin or reed birds at every meal. As for crow—only those who are too stubborn to relieve their famished tastes remain at the table where there is naught but crow.

The first crow served by the Cleveland Administration was tariff crow. This choked the factories all over the country and reduced the revenues so much that the Treasury was depleted. Then there was the income tax crow, a most curious hodge-podge, which not only displeased the whole country by its bungling, cumbersome provisions, but failed in its aim to bring in enough money to keep up the feast. Then the Democrats have had to eat the Hawaiian crow, the Samoan crow and the Nicaraguan crow. The free silver crow is now being made into an unpalatable ragout, and it promises to taste so badly that Bryan, Bland, Crisp, Alfeld, and other Democrats want to discharge the cook.

Now the Democrats should take developments more philosophically. They ordered crow at the last national election and they are getting their fill of it. But there is one way out of the middle. Let them correspond with the lawyer who secured Mrs. Triplett her divorce. He has gone over the crow question once and can doubtless analyze, vivisect and hypnotize crows at sight. The crow diet of the last two years ought to be a lesson to the Democrats. These walls are being built around the basin in which the pumping engine is to be set. The walls will rise to the surface and will form an excellent protection to the automatic electric pump of which such great things are expected. About 150 men were at work yesterday of whom about a dozen or 15 were on the Common, excavating further, and tearing up the incline. The walls have been laid as yet but the engineers hope to be ready for them today. If nothing unforeseen happens.

UNDERSTOOD.

Within the dewy morning's hush There sung a mellow-throated thrush, And drop by drop the honeyed tone, Fell on white stars of bloom alone. I know not did the flowers below Hear all his secret; yet aglow With dawn the daisy turned her eye To greet the daytime in the sky. Then came two lovers hand in hand On journey toward love's promised land; And bird and blossom, light and tone, Were understood by them alone. —Eugene Field.

NOTES FROM THE STATE PRESS.

The latest Cabinet rumor is the retirement of Lamont and the substitution of ex-Congressman Outwater of Ohio. The most that can be said is that Lamont is to be congratulated and Outwater pitied. If a Democrat of prominence wishes to end his political career, there is no surer way to accomplish it than by accepting a place in Cleveland's Cabinet.—Worcester Telegram.

The Treasury deficit has crossed the $50,000,000 line, and it looks as if it would reach $60,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year, June 30. The condition of a surplus which so painfully confronted Grover Cleveland a few years ago has been removed to his satisfaction, we trust.—Springfield Union.

A Natick man who eloped with a young girl, deserting a wife and five children, was sent to jail for 30 days and fined $7 and costs. It is difficult to determine whether that kind of a sentence is calculated to discourage elopements or encourage cheap outings.—Lynn Item.

It is said of John R. McLean of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who has just bought a New York newspaper, that every thing he touches turns to gold, except his editorials, which are all silver. There is some curiosity to know whether Mr. McLean will be as active for silver in New York as he has been in Cincinnati.—Brooklyn Times.

Gov. McKinley is coming to New York, when his boom is expected to make new headway. Ex-President Harrison is also about to make an Eastern trip, and his boom will make, if his friends do not mis-calculate. Meantime Thomas B. Reed—"the lay low"—Lowell Courier.

One of the free trade organs sets up a wall that the boom in stocks is not attended by an appreciation of the revenue of the Government; of course not; had the depressing Democratic tariff applied to stocks, there would have been no revival in that direction.—Lawrence Telegram.

GREATER NEW YORK BILL LOST.

Albany, N. Y., May 16.—The Legislature adjourned this afternoon, and the Greater New York bill was finally lost in the Senate, after the referendum had been adopted by a vote of 16 to 15. The referendum amendment to the bill provided that after a charter for the so-called Greater New York was drawn up by a committee, the charter should be voted upon by the citizens of the city.

Exports were $1,613,820 this year there was an excess of imports for the month of $3,348,674. For the 10 months ending April, 1894, there was an excess of exports of merchandise of $23,071,193, while this year for the corresponding period there is an excess of imports of $84,166,433, showing a change in the foreign trade of $11,737,616 in 10 months adverse to the United States. The exports for the month of April this year were $1,800,000 greater than for the same month last year, while the imports were $9,111,066 greater. The imports of dutiable goods were $7,683,175 last year, and $3,564,764 this year. Last year the merchandise admitted free of duty was $1,345,411 greater than for the month of April this year, while on dutiable goods there is an increase this year of $13,251,497 for the single month. This is a fair illustration of the new Democratic tariff act.

An army officer who holds very close relations to the Administration makes this statement as to the intentions of the President. The President and Secretary Herbert White fully satisfied that the Admiral would be disciplined for his offense, and themselves in a quandary as to what form the discipline should take. Owing to the refusal of Admiral Meade to affirm or deny this complexity, a court martial would be practically impossible, while his high rank in the navy would render it difficult under other circumstances to convene a court martial which would comply with the requirements of the law. For this reason it is considered probable that the Admiral will be reprimanded for violation of the navy regulations, and that the reprimand will accompany the order granting his request to be placed on the retired list.

HEARD ABOUT THE SICK.

Mrs. Hitt Encouraged Gresham and Miss Dodge Better.—(Cagwell Shows No Improvement.) (Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.) Washington, May 16.—Mrs. Hitt is more confident than she has been since the illness of Congressman Hitt became so very serious, that her husband has a fair chance for recovery. He has shown some increase of strength today. Secretary Gresham is gaining, and has the indication of a convalescent, a great appetite. He today for the first time took some solid food, a little quail. He manifested interest to consider public business, and requested that all of the papers at the State Department relating to the citizenship of the two persons who have been sentenced by the Hawaiian Government for complicity in the rebellion might be sent to him. It is not thought that he can leave the city before June 1. Gail Hamilton (Miss Dodge) is rapidly improving. There has been no improvement in the case of Gen. Cogswell.

RESERVATION OPENED.

Washington, May 16.—President Cleveland today signed the proclamation submitted to him by Secretary Hoke Smith opening for settlement on the 21st of May the lands of the Yankton Sioux Indian Reservation.

INDICTMENT IN PITZEL CASE.

Philadelphia, May 16.—The Grand jury today found a true bill against Jephtha D. Howe, Marion Hedgespach and Herman Hudest, alias H. H. Holmes, charging them with conspiring to defraud the Philadelphia Mutual Life Association of Philadelphia out of $10,000. This is the case which attracted much attention a few months ago by the defendants in painting off a dead body found in a house on Chilton Street, that of Benjamin Pitzel, whose life was insured in the Fidelity Association for $10,000. Pitzel is said to be alive.

Lawrence Remde, Woburn, were appointed Legislative Committee. L. L. Jones, G. N. Hopkins and A. W. Sperry, Attleboro, were appointed delegates to the national convention.

EXPENSE NO BAR.

Bill Hoodlers at Any Cost. (Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.) Newburyport, Mass., May 16.—The statement has been made that as two of the hoodlers in the celebrated Haverhill license deal are in Europe and Canada, it will be too expensive to have them returned for punishment to this country, even if extradition papers are easily obtained. The Journal reporter is today asked by Albert A. Torrey Moody about this band of hoodlers that expense would be no bar to the punishment being all in its power to bring the men as his being assured that the men were so voluntarily come into court for sentence, and that he was aware of their whereabouts, he said that such was not the case. The report was current tonight in the city that ex-Alderman George O. Thorton was in Newburyport this afternoon, but no one could be found to substantiate it.

COMMON WHITE WINE.

Disappointive Examination of Mrs. Parman Stevens's Newport Cellar. (Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.) Newport, R. I., May 16.—The value of Mrs. Parman Stevens's wines in the cellar of her famous Newport villa proved a great disappointment to the executors of her estate today, when they were formally appraised by experts. Mrs. Stevens had the reputation of having a cellar full of the first brands of wines of very old vintage, and a value of $3000 had been placed upon her cellar by some. The appraisers, however, found nothing but a great quantity of the commonest white wines, and their statement footed up to just $150. The cellar had been open all winter, and the wines exposed evidently to the cold weather, and it is believed that this carelessness had served to depreciate their value. Some people say the food wines were stolen, but such a statement appears absurd.

A TESTING OF EYES.

Some Boston and Maine Growing Tenders Said to Have Defective Sight. The eyes of all the employees on the Saugus Branch of the Boston and Maine Railroad were tested at Malden Thursday for color blindness and near-sightedness. Division Station Master Frank Baker passed through Malden in the forenoon and made the tests. It is said that some of the crossing tenders could hardly tell white from black.

WAGES NOT "JUMPING."

To the Editor of the Boston Journal: I note the blazing type in the Boston Herald of this day, "Wages Jumping." Now, then, will you kindly give your readers a comparison of the present advance wages with the wages paid in 1892, even after the cut down. I am sure you will be able to tell us that in almost every instance wages are lower than the lowest of 1892. Atchison stock has risen more than 100 per cent in the last year, yet it is very much lower than the last year of 1892. Whether protection of free trade prevails, there cannot be a downward tendency in wages forever. The pendulum is slowly swinging back to the normal. Free trade is a delusion. Wages rise in spite of Democratic mal-administration, but they are not aided by it.

war between Brazil and any other country. I feel that we have no alternative unless more consideration.

"We have had internal disorders in the Province of Rio Grande do Sul for several years. The men who were instrumental in fomenting the trouble were Gen. Mar-tinez and Admirals Melo and De Gama, the latter being the two officers who conducted the recent unsuccessful rebellion against President Piskoto. When that rebellion ended these men sought an asylum in Uruguay. At the request of the Brazilian Government they were expelled from that country because of their evident purpose to foment strife among the Brazilians from their place of refuge. After a time they were allowed to return to Uruguay. They are still there. Though their connivance in incursions have been made by armed bands from Uruguay across the border to the Brazilian State of Rio Grande. These are really so many banditti. They run off the cattle belonging to our people, and commit such other ravages as would follow a guer-rilla warfare.

"These men are not Brazilians. There are a good many Uruguayans among them. It is that which makes the raids more irri-tating to us. We would not object if Ur-uguay made an honest effort to prevent these raids, but it does not do that. We have pro-tested repeatedly, but the Uruguayan Gov-ernment does nothing. We have asked it to expel Martinez, De Gama and Melo, but it does not do so. Now it would appear from the dispatches that our people will take the matter in their own hands. I hope the report to that effect is correct."

"In that case, would Brazil enter upon a war of conquest?" was asked.

"I should say not," was the Minister's re-ply. "We would send troops to Uruguay and capture these Brazilian and Uruguayan raiders and compel the Government to ex-pel the three rebel chiefs whom I mention. With this we would, no doubt, be satisfied."

CHECK TO A LOG DRIVE.

(Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.)

Manchester, N. H., May 16.—The head of the big log drive down the Merrimack River has reached this city. An obstacle has been encountered here, and it may be three weeks before the men in charge of the drive will be able to get the logs past the city. The river is now so low that great difficulty is experienced in getting the lumber over the Amesbury Falls. Below the dam workmen have been blasting the rocks in the river to make a passage. There are about 7,000,000 feet in the drive, about evenly divided between spruce and pine. The entire gang of drivers consists of about 65 men, 10 of whom have arrived here.

PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 16.—The 107th Gen-eral Assembly of the Northern Presbyterian Church opened its sessions here today in the Third Presbyterian Church with the customary ceremonies. Dr. McEwen, Chair-man of the local committee, the clerks of the assembly, and many prominent minis-ters and ex-Moderators of the church were present. The opening session was occupied entirely by the delivery of the sermon of the retiring Moderator, Rev. Samuel A. McEwen, D. D., of Philadelphia.

Rev. Dr. Booth of New York was elected Moderator by a vote of 297.

SURPRISED TO HEAR OF SURPRISE.

(Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.)

Weymouth, Mass., May 16.—William Hatch-ago, who disappeared suddenly some days ago, and whose parents reported to the police that they feared he had been foully murdered, has arrived home, and ex-pressed surprise that his folks should be worried by his sudden departure. He says he has been in New York.

She has not returned since. The only word she has received of him was the letter from New York, which she had seen him driving along Broadway in a cab on Saturday.

LAID AT REST.

Impressive Funeral of the Late Henry Frost at Brookline.

Very solemn and impressive were the ser-vices attending the funeral of the late Henry Frost, which were held in the Har-vard Church, Brookline, yesterday after-noon. Many friends were present to pay tribute to his memory. From the Y. M. C. A., of which he had been a member for many years, Mr. Arthur Sawyer and Mr. A. F. Foster were present.

Beautiful were the clusters of flowers which covered the altar and the coffin. In the centre, against the altar, was an ex-tremely large and handsome wreath of white and purple lilies. On either side palms, wreaths and clusters of hydrangeas, roses and lilies gave a sweet perfume. No-ticable among them all was a bank of roses upon which the word "Adsum" was worked, and large wreaths presented by the Turcka Silk Company and Y. M. C. A.

After an anthem from Gounod, sung by a quartet, Rev. Royden Thomas, D. D., gave a short eulogy. The closing prayer was made by Rev. Jeremiah Taylor, D. D. The burial was in Mt. Auburn.

The pall bearers were Hon. Charles H. Allen, James S. Stone, W. J. Benedict, George Miner, Arthur Sawyer, John Shep-

I am much pleased with your Paskola. I find it an excellent food for thin and anaemic patients. It is really assimilated and pleasant to take. Yours truly, E. H. SPOONER, M. D.

NOTHING BUT PRAISE.

East Greenwich, R. I., April 25, 1895.

Your Paskola has been prescribed by me in cases of gastric indigestion and incipient phthisis. I am very much pleased with the results, and have nothing but praise for Paskola. Very truly yours, C. H. EARL, M. D.

FILLS A WANT.

Broome Centre, N. Y., April 25, 1895.

With regard to your Paskola, will say that I like it very much. I believe it fills a want that the medical profession has long felt. It is just the thing in the treatment of indigestion. Yours truly, D. M. LEONARD, M. D.

GASTRIC INDIGESTION.

Columbia, Ga., March 30, 1895.

I have been giving my wife your Paskola, she being much troubled with gastric indigestion. The product afforded immediate relief, and by doing the work of the stom-ach allowed that organ to rest and re-cuperate. Thus far she has taken two large bottles and is now in pretty good shape. I shall continue to prescribe Paskola. Very truly yours, J. C. MONTGOMERY, M. D.

HAVE IT IN THE DRUG STORES.

155 So. Broad Street, Savannah, Ga., April 15, 1895.

The good immediate effects derived by me in the use of Paskola for the treatment of gastric indigestion and wasting of flesh are so apparent that I am highly pleased and cordially recommend it. I am glad to see that the drug stores keep it. Yours truly, R. H. THOMPSON, M. D.

RAVENOUS APPETITE.

Jefferson, N. Y., April 23, 1895.

I prescribed your Paskola in a case of lung disease with loss of appetite. Saw the patient's husband a few days ago and he said: "That medicine helps my wife. She now has a ravenous appetite." You have his own words for whatever they are worth. Yours truly, R. HUBBELL, M. D.

FINDS IT MOST EXCELLENT.

Homer, N. Y., April 26, 1895.

I am using Paskola with great satisfac-tion not only to myself, but to my patients. I find that it works splendidly in those cases characterized by lack of nerve force due to gastric indigestion. I have prescribed it in three different cases, with uniform suc-cess. Sincerely yours, J. H. SACHIDER, M. D.

CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDS PASKOLA.

Homer, N. Y., April 26, 1895.

I find Paskola a good thing in cases of gastric indigestion. I cheerfully recommend it for the treatment of this disease. Re-spectfully yours, A. L. HEAD, M. D.

Such statements need no comment. The highest authorities in the country are unanimous in the opinion that Paskola is absolutely harmless, even in those cases which it cannot benefit, in this respect be-ing vastly superior to the majority of drugs. Descriptive pamphlets will be mailed free on application to the Pre-Digested Food Company, No. 30 Reas Street, New York.

sum of political animus behind the charges; that two of the other charges against him are of ancient date, and that a fourth was made by the executor of an estate whom he was suing for malfeasance in office; that three of the charges were brought by a bitter personal antagonist of his; that he was given sufficient time in which to defend himself; that the grievance Com-mittee of the Bar Association; that five charges had been abandoned; but that, al-though notified to the effect by the attor-ney of the Bar Association, the latter re-fused to let them from the record by making a formal disavowal of them un-less he would sign a statement that the reason they were abandoned was because their substance was fraudulently embosomed in those remaining which Mr. Greenhood says was plainly not the case.

A side from charges made in connection with the Howard Gill will case, there are made the following:

Conspiracy with J. W. Chase to make a sham offer for stock, and to blackmail H. A. Rich. Rich told to act on his own judg-ment. Tabular testimony, Chase after as genuine, and threatening opposition to the second account.

Offer to assist Rich as Executor in de-cieving Probate Court in respect to the second account, and to aid him in perjury thereon by offering to consent for money to fraudulent account.

Sending a letter to Edmund Davis with intent to blackmail Rich under threats of prosecution for various offences.

Fraudulently settling a claim against the Boston Land Company by dismissing bill in equity; accepting certificate of deposit payable to one Andrews, plaintiff in that suit.

Fraudulently failing to carry out a con-tract to effect the nullification of an unau-thorized settlement, and permitting unau-thorized settlement to become ratified.

Indorsing certificate of deposit for $200 collecting the amount of the same, and secretly and fraudulently converting the same to his own use.

Winslow Warren a Witness.

Mr. Winslow Warren, lawyer and Col-lector of the Port, was the first witness. Mr. Warren said that he and Mr. Green-hood were fellow-citizens of Dedham for some years, and they took an interest in town affairs. He never had any feeling against Mr. Greenhood.

Mr. Warren said that he did nothing to call this matter to the Bar Association. He spoke of it to several persons. It was well-spoken of in Dedham, through the persons who had referred Mrs. Halbaer to him.

Before the introduction of any evidence, Hon. Geo. F. Williams stated to the Court that he was counsel for Dr. J. W. Chase of Dedham, a conspiracy with J. W. Green-hood, a conspiracy in specification No. 3. Dr. Chase alleged that he was supported by affidavits for leave to intervene in this cause, but this petition was denied by Judge Dunbar.

The Court said no consideration of this matter was required at present, and the testimony was taken up.

Production of Agreement.

Erastus Worthington, Clerk of the Courts for Norfolk County, testified to the produc-tion of the agreement in court at the first trial of the Gill will at Dedham a year ago, in consequence of what a witness said upon cross-examination. The agreement was im-pounded by him while the jury in that case was out, by order of the Supreme Court.

Henry B. Forbes, cashier of the National Bank of the Republic, testified to the Bos-ton Land Company's deposit of $200 in 1891, and being given a certificate of deposit for that sum payable to itself; that the certi-ficate of deposit was indorsed by the land company to Henry Andrews, and that it was indorsed by Mr. Greenhood as attor-ney for Mr. Andrews.

Edward A. Brooks, cashier of the Ded-ham National Bank, testified to the cer-tificate of deposit for $200 passing through his bank.

Cross-examined by Counsel Morse, Cash-ier Brooks said that in 1892 Dr. Chase was good financially for several thousands of dollars. Dr. Chase is surety on his bond. This testimony was objected to by Mr. Dunbar, as it was alleged that Mr. Green-hood procured Dr. Chase in 1892, when he was of no financial responsibility, to make an offer to buy shares of American Food Company at $700,000 of American Food

"Not so much that. Thought it best to follow him up, on his offer. He could get a mortgage."

Mr. Rich said that he did not have the intention all along that Mr. Railford should have the stock. Dr. Chase made no state-ment to him that what was proposed by him was a fraud upon the heirs.

"Why did you want Dr. Chase to get the Dunn house?"

"To help Dr. Chase to get the stock cheap-er, wanted to make a sale of it to him."

"How much was the house appraised for?"

"Forty-six hundred dollars."

The hearing at this point was continued till this morning.

WASHBURN APPOINTED TRUSTEE.

Long Dispute Over the E. J. M. Hale Estate Settled at Last.

Frank L. Washburn of Boston was yes-terday appointed a Trustee of the E. J. M. Hale estate, of Bradford, after a lengthy hearing at Salem, before Judge Harmon, in which all the disputing heirs figured. Young Walter Hale, who with his sister, Natalia Gilroy, wife of the son of New York's ex-Mayor, shares one-fifth of the Hale millions, estimated now at about $3,000,000, was the principal object at yesterday's proceed-ings. He is about 20 years of age, and is the young man who figured in a quarrel at the Parker House a few months ago with the young Gilroy, his sister's husband, as a result of which a duel was threatened.

When the old gentleman died he left his property in trust in five equal parts, Walter and his sister sharing one, Frank and Ben-jamin Hale having one-fifth each, Mabel and Lucy Howe a fifth between them, and his widow a fifth. Mrs. Hale was named as one of the Trustees, and her death was primarily the cause of the dispute, which was ended in court yesterday. The question was regarding her successor.

Walter asked to have Richard Merriam of Haverhill named as Trustee. Mabel and Lucy Howe, the two grandchildren, asked for Mr. Washburn's appointment. Mr. Gilroy wanted Arthur D. Veazey named, and Benjamin and Frank Hale united with him in this request, considering Mr. Veazey in the right man. To settle this division of opinion regarding the best choice, yesterday's hearing was held.

WILL SAVE AN HOUR AND A HALF.

The Fitchburg Railroad East-bound limit-ed express, with through sleepers from Chicago, due in Boston at 10.30 P. M., will, on and after May 19, arrive in Boston at 9 P. M., a saving of one and one-half hours in time from all principal points in the West.

This change will be greatly appreciated by tourists en route from the West to the mountain and seashore resorts of New England.

TICKETS TO EMPLOYEES.

Shepard, Norwell & Co. presented their employees with 100 tickets to the performance of "The Arabian Nights," given at the Park Theatre Tuesday evening, for the benefit of the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital.

"I have a dear little babe, and am well. I thank Mrs. Pinkham for this, and so could other motherless women. I was a victim of Fe-male troubles. Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound cured me."

From the best information that can be obtained, it does not appear to have provided the means for its fully interest yet. Those close to the company say that the managers are confident of being able to do so prior to the time of payment. They hope to do it in some other way than a funding of coupons, possibly by a change in the company's organization. The bonds have weakened largely through sales on the part of banks holding them.

drawn upon to the amount of $50,000. Further, therefore, this patent item is presented at 4.3 per cent. of the value attributed to them, a vast pretension, and plans at 3 per cent. of the previous valuation. Here, then, is a shrinking of 85.1 per cent. in the patent and 69 per cent. in stations, which certainly speaks well for the thorough manner in which the managers of the company have gone to work to put the affairs of the corporation upon a conservative basis. Eliminating the patent item altogether and deducting the outstanding bonds

The effortment in the West has been again quite intense. Competition for the new clip is keen and extreme prices are being paid. That is, prices that appear extreme in view of the condition of affairs here.

In all of the Territories, Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, Montana and the others, prices are being paid that are equal to a cost of 30 cents clean. The wool costs here in many cases 31 and 32 cents per pound, and would have to be sold for more to give the dealer a profit.

In Texas some of the shorter wools have been sold at equal to 28 cents clean here.

This is the question asked on all sides here. Most of the leading merchants here deny all participation in the movement. But some one is doing it, and by this means shows one a degree of confidence in the future that is remarkable. All that can be done with the wool so bought is to store it, for the market at present is so constituted that a loss would be sustained by selling.

Fleece Wool.

A few large lines of fleece wool have been closed out. It is needless to say that low prices have been obtained.

No. 1 washed combing wools have been quiet and are entirely nominal at 19 cents per pound. Some of the Michigan fine delaine sold at 17½ cents, and 10,000 pounds of Ohio at 18 cents, both for a sale of 200,000 pounds.

LEXOW ORDER SLIPPED THROUGH

Vote on Order Came Before Senator

Senator Had Chance to Speak.

Hutchinson of Boston slipped through the Senate Thursday afternoon just as if it had been shot through a slot.

When it came up, with its preamble and provisions for investigating Boston city departments, everybody simply sat back and waited to see what would happen. It

REFUSED TO CONCUR.

House Amendments to Minute Children's

When the bill placing children in the care of the State under the custody of the Trustees of the Lyman and Industrial schools and abolishing the State Primary School at Morison came back from the House with numerous amendments, the Senate refused to concur in them. The amendments increased the power of the Trustees of the Lyman School. Mr. Boddett of Worcester-

Hampshire explained the history of the measure and urged that the Senate non-concur in the House amendments.

Measures Miller of Worcester, Bradford of Hampden and Neill of Bristol urged the rejection of the House amendments in the interests of fair play. Messrs. Galloupe of Essex and Sprague of Suffolk favored concurrence. "It is time for us to do something for the children supposed to be in the care of the State," Mr. Galloupe said. He claimed that for the past 25 years the State Board of Juvenile and Charitable Aid failed to care properly for them. He believed a little spring cleaning in certain directions would

SALARY BILLS PASSED.

Senate Sent Them Along to the Governor

for His Consideration.

In the Senate, on motion of Mr. Atwood of Plymouth, the engrossed bill to raise the salary of the Clerk of the Courts for the county of Plymouth was taken from the table and enacted. On motion of the same Senator the rejection of the bill providing for the payment of the salaries of

Assistant District Attorneys from the State treasury was reconsidered. This bill was opposed by Messrs. MacCabe and Quinn of Southold. Messrs. Durant of Middlesex,

Southard of Bristol and Atwood of Plymouth urged its passage. A motion to refer the matter to the next General Court was defeated, 10 to 35. The bill was then ordered to a third reading.

Reconsideration was denied on the vote whereby the Senate refused to suspend the rule to admit a petition for the practical consolidation of the North and Consolidated Railways in Worcester.

Authority of the Police.

Gen. Martin Says No—The Case

Has Gone to the Jury.

There were many startling developments in the Page-Manning trial Thursday. The prosecution abruptly announced that it rested its case the moment Court convened.

The defence announced that Gen. Martin and Deputy Pierce had been summoned.

They did not appear and were defaulted.

Messrs. Richardson and Gove, for the defence, through them tried to prove that the defendants were acting for them and with their knowledge.

Gen. Martin admitted that Page had told him of entering the building at 101 Milk

Street, but said he had given him no permission to continue his investigation. Deputy Pierce also admitted this, but said he had instructed Page not to continue his work, and had further told him that he was liable to State Prison.

He was contradicted fairly by Manning,

said anything of that sort, he would send him to State Prison. Both Manning and Page told straightforward stories. Mr.

Richardson, for Manning, showed that the latter acted under Page, because of his belief that all was done under authority.

Both sides rested at 2.20, and the arguments commenced.

Government Rests Its Case.

"The Government rests its case, Your Honour," was the announcement, sufficiently startling, made by District Attorney Suggrave.

Mr. Henry A. Richardson, who, with Mr.

Gove, is conducting the case for the defendants, then addressed the jury, stating first what they intended to prove.

"We shall undertake to show to you,"

he said, "that Page has been notoriously used by the Police Department."

"I should like to ask if this opening is for

Mr. Page?" said the District Attorney.

"For both," answered Mr. Gove.

Resuming, Mr. Richardson said: "We shall show that in February last, acting under instructions from Police Headquarters, Page went to work to follow up policy writers. He took Mr. Manning with him.

Manning is not a locksmith; he is a machinist.

"We shall undertake to show that with the knowledge and cognizance of the police

Mr. Page followed these men, and also

Charles S. Williams. Mr. Page picked a lock and opened a safe, and secured full evidence against the policy men. This was reported to Police Headquarters and a raid instigated, which was unsuccessful."

Testimony Begins.

The defendants were then sworn, and Hebert S. Page placed on the stand.

He said he was an expert on safes and locks, and had been one for 17 years.

The most of his work had been done for detectives and sheriffs two months and a half ago he did the last piece of work for him. It was at a Kirkland Street apartment house, the property of Boston

Police Department.

He said that he had entered the building at Milk Street.

1000 collar pads at the low price of 25c., regular price 50c.
1000 Modoc feed bags, at 25c., worth 50c.
All harnesses, brushes, whips, currycombs, summer and winter sheets, blankets, and other horse equipments at equally low prices at wholesale or retail.

P. S.—The public or jealous dealers will, perhaps, say: "How can they sell cheaper than any one else?" Well, we will tell you how we can do it. First—We buy direct from the manufacturers in large quantities for cash, and thus secure a big discount. Second—We buy direct to divide with our customers. So far, we have been successful in such large quantities that we can buy cheaper. We carry over $25,000 worth of stock on hand; our rent is cheap; our expenses are small; and so why cannot we sell cheaper than those who have elaborate stores, pay high rents, and high salaried clerks? We do our own buying and our own selling, therefore we save so much that we are willing to divide the profits with our customers. Call in and see us, Examine our goods. Compare our prices, and then you can buy your goods 20 per cent. off. And you can buy in this city a class of goods of any other concern in this city, then we don't know what we are talking about.

For 12 days of May they were only $1.00, and the improvement in the receipts from all other sources, which were $1.13, for the first 12 days in April, have been only $1.00, for the same time in May. The figures for an additional day in each month make a still worse showing for May, but afford hardly a fair index of average receipts, because the 14th of May fell on Tuesday, which is always a day of light receipts, and the 15th of April fell on Monday, which is a day of average receipts. The increase in the internal revenue receipts is following to some extent its expected course now that the stocks of whisky withdrawn from bond before the enactment of the new tariff are being released. The increase is not large, however, and does not count for much in offsetting the serious loss in customs receipts. There is nothing in the Treasury situation which calls for immediate action, as the general balance is about $180,000,000, and is subject to an increase of about $15,000,000 on account of the payments by the bond syndicate. May should show the same deficit as April, therefore, amounting to about $1,000,000, exclusive of interest payments.

The call for further gold on the part of the Belmont-Morgan syndicate from the members of that syndicate is only in accordance with the general terms of the agreement and indicates no change in the position of the syndicate. For those who have not noted the terms of that agreement on the part of those constituting the original syndicate, it may be said that the understanding was that the members should pay their proportional part of the gold required for their operations here at once, and stand ready to furnish in addition an equal amount of gold in exchange for currency. The original amount of gold was paid and about a month ago, before the sterling market had turned in our favor, a call was made for this amount promised in exchange for currency. The smaller participants in the syndicate and the Boston members of it, paid the full allotment then. Some of the larger New York houses turned in only a part of it. The present call is for this balance due under the agreement. The 40 per cent, returned by the syndicate represented a part of the original payment by members and their proportional profits, the syndicate believing the situation warranted a return of a portion of the funds. A member of the syndicate has been in Boston this week, and he expressed himself as fully satisfied with the situation thus far and was confident of the future.

The Clearing House banks have taken steps to check the success of the foreign currency market. The association, pursuing efforts upon these lines, has adopted a special meeting, adopted a town meeting to the effect that all banks in town should be instructed to inform them of all checks drawn upon them each day. The notification is to include the number of the check, the amount and to whom it is to be paid.

The preliminary statement of our foreign trade shows a balance against us for April of $1,838,368. A balance against us for the month, however, exceeded gold exports by $1,069,432, indicating that foreigners are satisfied in taking our corporation I O U's in preference to the cash. Since July exports run ahead of imports by $1,105,330. The merchandise totals are:

April	1904	1905
Exports	$5,235,901	$6,072,187
Imports	$6,756,454	$8,465,338
Excess of exports	$1,521,333	$1,111,086
Since Jan. 1	$1,521,333	$1,111,086
Excess of exports	$1,521,333	$1,111,086
Excess of exports	$1,521,333	$1,111,086

Bar silver has declined 1/2 in London to 395 1/2 per ounce.

London copper quotations and London copper reports are somewhat at variance. Reports are that producers in Europe have agreed to restrict their production by 7 per cent, on condition that exports from this country be limited to 50,000 tons. On this basis foreign production would be decreased by about 630,000 tons. Despite any of these reports, the market for copper has been quiet, and the price of copper has been steady at about 27,000 tons. Copper has been quiet, and the price of copper has been steady at about 27,000 tons. Copper has been quiet, and the price of copper has been steady at about 27,000 tons.

and offerings unimpressive. For systems leased or sold, competition has also been very sharp and severe, and as a result several of our competitors have found it practically impossible to continue in the business. For the past two or three months the output has been considerably more than for the corresponding months of 1904. Taking into consideration the general depression of business, the earnings of the company have been quite satisfactory. A dividend has been paid in December, and another has been earned, and will in all probability be declared and paid on the 1st day of July next.

The outlook for business for another year is very promising. During the year several new systems have been devised and improvements made in old systems. The money spent on inventions and patents and protecting the same is necessarily large, and we have value received, and hope to be able in the future to charge of each year a portion of the patent account. Ten patents have been granted to us during the year. Twenty-four applications for improvements are now pending in the Patent Office.

There was a decided change for the better in the stock exchange today, owing to the execution of large buying orders for foreign accounts. Strange as it may appear, the street accepted the sales of nearly $5,000,000 New York Central Treasury stock by J. P. Morgan & Co. to English capitalists as a bull argument. Less than a week ago, when it was reported that the Chicago and Northwestern Road had placed a sufficient amount of bonds to pay for the elevation of its tracks in Chicago, the whole market sold off. Today the announcement that the Central had sold a block of stock acted as a flip, and nearly everything on the list moved up. Another anomaly was the buoyancy of the grainers in the face of doubtful reports concerning the crops. These stocks and the Vanderbills were the keynote to the market, and figured for 80,240 shares in a grand total of $4,094,949. New York Central rose 3/4 to 104, Canada Southern 1 1/4 to 53 1/2, Big Four 2 to 45, Michigan Central 1 1/2 to 102 1/2, Lake Shore 1 1/4 to 102 1/2, Nickel Plate common 2 1/4 to 18 1/2, Second preferred 1 1/4 to 38 1/2, St. Paul 2 1/2 to 67 1/2, Burlington and Quincy 2 1/2 to 60, Northwestern 1 1/2 to 100, Rock Island 2 to 63 1/2, and Omaha 3 1/2 to 100. Great Northern preferred, on reports that President Hill had promised control of the Northern Pacific, advanced up 11 points to 132. Mr. Hill is expected to sign this day tomorrow, and pending a definite statement from him, conservatives were inclined to hold off.

The general list was inclined to lag until the Vanderbills and grainers developed activity, and then the stock market for a reaction turned in and bought notable gains scored in the inactive were Tompkins, Fargo and Iron preferred 1,000, 80, and Wells closed strong in London. Speculation showed advances of 3 to 38 per cent, the latter in the railroad and miscellaneous bond market.

Missing Man Had Trouble With Many Lawyers.

He Was Involved in Legal Suits Over Uncle's Property.

Mrs. Evans Thinks Her Husband Was Robbed of $1500.

There are not many people in this city who believe that Gilbert F. Evans, the missing stockbroker, who left his home, 767 Tremont Street, two weeks ago Sunday, was kidnapped. Mrs. Evans says he was. She gives as a reason that her husband was about to bring a suit in the Probate Court to have two Trustees appointed to the estate of his uncle, Gilbert Evans, who died in 1839 and left $250,000. The nephew was ignored in the will, and the widow, who was Julia Alma Peterson, and a servant of Mr. Evans before he married her when he was 80 years old, was made a Trustee with Charles Parker and James Beal.

The will provided that if either of the trustees refused to act the remaining one or ones should be the sole trustee. Both Beal and Parker declined to serve. A queer provision in the will was that the widow should get about one-half of the estate and that the balance should be left in trust for the children of Gilbert F. Evans, the missing man. This was not to be paid, however, until 21 years after the death of Gilbert F. In case he should have no children, the property was to go to the widow in Sweden. Gilbert F. has no children.

Suits were at once brought against the estate by Gilbert F. They were contested by the widow and went to the Supreme Court. Then they were settled, and Gilbert F. received $15,000. In one suit Gilbert F. claimed that there was a vacancy in the Trustees. He wanted the Court to appoint two others, with the widow, in place of the two who resigned. This claim was also contested by the widow, and the Trustees have never been appointed. The various lawyers who were employed by Gilbert F. to prosecute these suits had a great many disagreements with the contestant and his wife, who is said by some to have been the prime mover in all the cases.

Had Many Lawyers.

Frank Washburn, who used to be of the firm of Benj. F. Butler & Co., was the first lawyer. It was he who engineered the settlement. Next the contestants had John McInerney of Quincy. They were dissatisfied with his handling of the case. James Cotter of 53 State Street was hired by the contestants to prosecute suits and to try to get Edward Avery and A. D. S. Bell appointed Trustees. He was not long interested in the case. Francis Adams of Tremont Street was the last lawyer. He says he was bothered so by Mrs. Evans that he wouldn't have her around the office. Mrs. Evans added some to the abduction story Wednesday. She says that her husband was robbed by a stranger of about $2000 the day before he disappeared. This has been reported to the police, and they have promised to do what they can to look into the matter up. The way it happened was this:

Robbery Is Alleged.

It became necessary when the affairs of the estate were being settled to have Trustees Beal take a hand in the business. He declined to do so until he got a bond from Gilbert F. Evans was then proposed by him. It was $2000 and was signed by Evans and George B. Smith of the Seaside Building and a Mr. Johnson, before he signed the bond.

A Way Discovered by Which It Can Easily Be Done.

THE TRUE PHILOSOPHY OF GETTING FAT

A Natural Food That Does Not Require Digestion.

Like every other muscle, the stomach occasionally gets tired, and when it does we are not long in finding it out. Most dyspeptics deplore the fact that eating is a necessity, and often feel that if their poor debilitated stomach could be given a little rest it would come around all right.

It begins to look as though chemistry had really solved the riddle. As we all know, the stomach's work is the digestion of food, and this is now being done by artificial processes outside of the body.

The Pre-Digested Food Company of New York offer a food preparation that is promptly absorbed without taxing the stomach, and not only this, but they have combined therewith certain digestive principals which aid the digestion of other foods. As a result, dyspeptics find that while using it, they can eat heartily of foods which have previously caused them untold distress, and an increase of appetite and weight follows almost immediately.

A great many people have indigestion without really knowing it, the disease exhibiting itself in a loss of weight and strength, thus clearly indicating that the system is not being furnished with a proper supply of nourishment.

Nothing so worries a physician as to see a patient losing flesh, nor is there anything known to the medical profession which is so efficient in checking such loss and restoring patients to their normal condition as this artificially digested food, Paskola.

Within the past two months the manufacturers have received over five hundred testimonials from doctors alone, all of whom are surprised and delighted with Paskola's action.

We quote as many of these letters as space will allow.

AN INTERESTING LETTER.

St. Mark's Hospital, New York, April 26, 1895. I have lately had an opportunity of testing your Paskola. The patient was a young woman, age 25, who had had anaemia, gastric indigestion, loss of appetite and chronic constipation for several years.

For a year previous I had tried perhaps a dozen of the usual tonics, Bland's Pills, Fowler's Solution, gentian, nux vomica, malt, etc., without observing any marked improvement in her condition. Then I shifted to Paskola. Within a week there was a marked increase of appetite, and her general condition began to improve.

Her depressed state of mind gave way to buoyancy, her bowels, which had absolutely resisted treatment, became regular at once. It is my belief that Paskola is unequalled as a tonic, alterative and bowel regulator, and I shall continue to most heartily recommend it to my patients. Yours truly, Elisha Greenhood of Roxbury in Superior Court.

Boston Bar Association Makes a Complaint Against Him.

Charges Unprofessional Conduct in Howard Gill Will Case.

In the Equity Session of the Superior Court Thursday, before Judge Braley, without a jury, was begun the prosecution of Elisha Greenhood, Esq., of Roxbury, a member of the Suffolk county Bar, and one of the most prominent trial lawyers of Suffolk and adjoining counties, on charges of alleged professional misconduct, the prosecution being conducted in the name of the Bar Association of the city of Boston.

The first and principal accusation against Mr. Greenhood is that he made an unlawful contract with Miss Florence W. Low of Stoughton, Mass., in connection with her being a witness in the well-known Howard Gill will case, involving about $30,000, which has been pending in the Norfolk Supreme Court the past year.

In June, 1892, Mrs. Gill died, and Mr. Gill, being childless, went to live with Eljah W. Bonnemort of East Dedham, a nephew, where in July, 1892, 11 months before his death, he made another will, leaving everything to Mr. Bonnemort. When this will was probated, three of the heirs from Orange, N. J., took an appeal to the Supreme Court, and duly entered it, but in September, 1893, after the 30 days allowed for the taking of the appeal from a probate decree, had expired, six more of the Gill heirs became aware of the fact that through accident or mistake their interests had been overlooked, and they thereupon employed Mr. Greenhood to secure the allowance of an appeal for them, and to contest the will in the event of his securing such allowance.

Miss Low Was to Aid.

In October, 1893, there ensued between himself, representing these six contestants, and Miss Low, the transaction before referred to. This is a written contract, now in the custody of the Supreme Court at Dedham, which agrees to pay her $500 in consideration of Miss Low's aiding the contestants in their fight to the utmost of her power.

The Bar Association claims that Miss Low was not only to secure witnesses for the contestants, but was also herself to testify to facts which would tend to show insanity in Howard Gill at the time he made the later will.

It is also claimed that it was intended by Miss Low and Mr. Greenhood that the fact of the agreement should be kept a secret, and that when put upon the stand she should appear to be a disinterested witness, although it is also claimed that she did work in aid of the contest long before the first trial of the will contest, which took place in the latter part of May, 1894.

Mr. Greenhood's written answer to the complaint admits having called Miss Low as a witness seven months after the making of this agreement, and that he made that agreement, but he denies absolutely that it was any part of the consideration of the agreement that Miss Low was to testify, and he denies, with considerable emphasis, that there was anything unlawful, improper, fraudulent or corrupt about the contract.

George F. Piper, member of the Bar, was next called. He was counsel for the Boston Land Company in the suit brought by Henry Andrews against it. Mr. Greenhood was counsel for Andrews, the plaintiff. In July, 1891, the witness was called upon a matter to return the certificate of deposit. He did not know that Mr. Greenhood offered to return that either Mr. Greenhood or a messenger had come to his office two or three times to get the settlement of the Andrews v. Land Company case revoked and matters restored to the original state.

Mr. Dabney introduced the record of the court in the Gill will case. Mr. Frank H. Burt, stenographer, was the next witness. He said that he was present throughout the trial of the Gill case except the afternoon of May 24, reporting the evidence.

Mr. Dabney offered a transcript of Mr. Burt of the full evidence of Miss Florence Low as having a bearing upon the first and second specifications. Mr. Morse objected to the evidence. He did not think the evidence of Miss Low was competent under the specifications for the purpose for which it was offered.

Judge Braley decided to allow the transcript in evidence. A session of the court, the transcript of Miss Low's testimony at the Gill will contest remained unread, though Mr. Henry A. Rick of Hyde Park was on the stand all the afternoon session. He was called to testify upon specifications Nos. 3, 4 and 5 of the petition against Mr. Greenhood. He said that among the assets which he held as executor were 38 shares of the stock of the American Tool Company. On Jan. 2, 1893, he received a registered mail letter from Dr. Y. W. Chase of Dedham, offering $200 per share for the stock. This letter he had lost.

The witness gave the talk at two or three conversations which he had with Dr. Chase at Hyde Park and Dedham in relation to the purchase of the stock. After the will was made, he said, Dr. Chase said to him: "I guess I offered you too much for that stock." The witness told him that if he offered too much for the stock he could make an offer for the Dunn house and the stock together, and perhaps get the stock cheaper.

The witness waited two weeks, but heard nothing from Dr. Chase. The witness told Mr. Greenhood that he had an offer of $175 per share for the stock. He got no word from either Mr. Greenhood or Dr. Chase, and so sold it at that figure per share. Six weeks after the sale, Dr. Chase called at his house in Hyde Park. Dr. Chase called he called to see about the stock. The witness told him that he had waited longer than customary for him, and then sold it. Dr. Chase said he did not think the witness would have dared to have sold it, and on Feb. 10, 1893, the sale was made, and on Feb. 10, 1893.

Mr. Rich further stated that he was present at the hearing before the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association. Mr. Greenhood was there and so was Dr. Chase. Counsel Morse took up the cross-examination of Mr. Rick. The witness stated that he sold the stock on Feb. 10, 1893, to Ben. P. Radford, now dead, but then President of the American Tool Co. He asked Mr. Radford in December, 1892, to make a bid for the stock.

The witness held a small memorandum book by which he refreshed his recollections of the events in the Dunn estate. Counsel Morse asked leave to examine it. The witness was unwilling to allow him. The court, however, decided counsel was entitled to examine. The witness thereupon handed it over to counsel.

Mr. Rich continuing, said that Mr. Radford first made an offer of $155 a share. This was made in a letter dated Dec. 10, 1892, in which was the statement, "Perhaps somebody may improve it, but more, if so, advise me." Mr. Radford said, to witness, that he would give more than anybody else. The witness told him of the offer made by Dr. Chase of $200, but did not mention Dr. Chase's name. Radford asked who it was that made the offer, and said that he must be crazy.

The witness was shown a paper, and asked if it was a copy of the letter which he received from Dr. Chase containing the offer to buy the stock. He said that was not, though he could not remember that letter verbatim. He did not industry, somehow, escaped the worst of the tariff smashers, and the adequate protection which it had enjoyed for many years has placed it in excellent shape to withstand foreign competition.

A SHARP ANSWER.

There would be something ludicrous if it were not so reckless and untruthful in the frantic attempts which a few of the more headlong free trade newspapers are making to claim as fruits of "tariff reform" the increases in wages which have followed in the track of the Republican tidal wave of last November. But in so far as these are serious perversions of the facts, they deserve to be pretty sharply and summarily co-rected, and this correction is administered in effective form by the alert and indefatigable Secretary of the Home Market Club in a letter to a local Democratic contemporary which had lent its columns to the furthering of such delusions.

Col. Clarke in opening reminds his adversary of the significant truth that such an advance in wages as there has been "is only a partial recovery from the fall which wages sustained almost immediately after the tariff reform party came into power in all branches of the Government." And he continues:

"According to the information gathered by the non-partisan commercial agencies and from all other trustworthy sources, the restoration averages but a little more than one-half the reduction that had been made. In the textile industries, the returns from 481 establishments made last month show that 185 had not reduced at all, though most of the owners reported that they ought to have done so, 16 reduced and have since fully restored, 23 reduced and have restored about one-half, and 23 reduced and have not restored, and most of the owners say they cannot afford to, in the face of increasing foreign competition and the growing undervaluation frauds that are invited by the present ad valorem tariff."

To the wild Democratic assertion that "during the whole McKinley period wages were declining in all industries," Col. Clarke replies:

"Returns to the Labor Bureau of the State of New York, comparing the year ended Aug. 31, 1891 (about 10 months of it under McKinley tariff), with the last year preceding it, showed that in 6000 of the leading industrial establishments of that State there was during that year a net increase in wages of $6,377,925, divided among 89,717 individuals. Of all the industries which made returns, 75 per cent. showed increases of wages. The average increase in yearly earnings in the 51 trades covered was $43.96 for each individual. The gains in all the other States having bureaus of statistics were on about the same scale, and in 1892, the first and only full year of the normal operation of the McKinley tariff, the gain was more marked. Most of the large New England cotton mills voluntarily increased wages on an average about 7 per cent."

That was while "McKinleyism" was in full and unhampered operation. A most disastrous change almost immediately followed the tariff smashers' victory in the national election of 1892. The effect upon

Next week the American Protective Tariff League will observe its tenth anniversary. Its official organ, the American Economist, announces that its next issue "will contain a history of the league from its foundation down to the present time, and a large number of letters from our representatives in Congress upon the political situation, both as it affects the present and future, from the standpoint of a protective policy. We shall further present a number of letters from those editors of the leading daily papers in the United States who believe that the permanent prosperity and welfare of the country and the consequent enrichment and happiness of the people can be best served only through protection." It may be added that never in its history have the American people been so cordially and overwhelmingly in agreement with the league as they are at present.

GOOD BOTTOM STRUCK.

Everybody at the Subway Is Happy Now and the Work Is Flowing Along.

Everyone at the subway was in the best of spirits yesterday afternoon, for, in spite of all fears to the contrary, the engineers have at last struck an excellent bottom. All day yesterday the piles kept going in, harder and harder, and at 5 o'clock the pile-driver had to use more power than ever before in order to drive them home. As soon as the ground became hard, shorter piles were used, and it is pretty certain that the day of 40-foot piles has gone by.

Mr. Young, the engineer, who has charge of the pile driving, told the Journal man that as the work progressed the piles used would gradually become shorter, until at last they would not be longer than 10 feet, and would probably be shorter. There are evidences of many boulders. Every now and then a pile goes down all right for a certain distance, and then suddenly, without warning, will stick fast and refuse to budge an inch. There is no soil so hard as the strata to subsoil boulders. Beyond the pile driver, near Church Street, where the piles have already been driven, the concrete has a put in over

Results If Court Decide Against Income Tax.

Exports and Imports Under the Democratic Tariff Measure.

Admiral Meade Will Probably Be Sharply Reprimanded Only.

(Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.) Washington, May 16.—If the United States Supreme Court on Monday decide the Income Tax law to be unconstitutional, as it is claimed in well-informed quarters will be the fact, some interesting questions will arise. The Government is not, of course, entitled to retain the taxes which may have been paid for income by those persons who aspire to promptness, and who were not willing to postpone payment until near the expiration of the legal date of payment, July 1. The Treasury Department cannot, of its own motion, refund the amount received. There is no provision in the law for doing this, nor is it believed that there is any provision in any general law which would authorize such a "refunding." Those who have already paid the income tax would, undoubtedly, be compelled for a time to remain the victims of their own zeal. The money undoubtedly earned not be refunded except by an appropriation from Congress. That is the opinion of eminent lawyers. How soon such an appropriation would be made it is impossible to say.

Other Questions.—There is another problem which will have a much wider interest than that which attaches to the payment of the taxes which may be declared unconstitutional. The question will be raised, what is to become of the returns which have been made of the incomes, and how can any impeccunious or corrupt subordinate of the internal revenue service be punished if he disclose the secrets of those who returns to unscrupulous business rivals or otherwise give them publicity? Under what law could such disclosure be punished? The penalty provided for making public the returns, or giving any information regarding them, is severe and explicit in the law itself. But if that law be declared unconstitutional, how can revenue officers who violate it be punished? Would the courts hold that they were amenable to a law that had been declared unconstitutional and void?

Another question which will be raised is where will these returns, which involve the secrets of the business of the entire country, be permanently lodged in the event that the law be declared unconstitutional and inoperative? Will they remain unused in pigeon holes, subject to the inspection of the idle, the curious, and possibly the corrupt, or will they be returned to those who made them, and what provision can be made for their return? Or what provision will the Government make for preserving inviolate these secrets which are so important to those who made the returns and to their business rivals, but which would, in the event of the declaration that the law was unconstitutional, be of no value to the Government.

The repeal of the law will raise very many like questions, which will be of great interest, and as to the solution of which internal revenue officers admit that they are now entirely ignorant.

Fund for Support of New Hampshire Episcopal Episcopate Invested in Non-Productive Western Securities—Treasurer Farwell Said to Have Paid the Bishop's Salary from His Own Pocket.

(Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.) Concord, N. H., May 16.—The Episcopal Diocese of New Hampshire is financially embarrassed to some extent in relation to its permanent fund for the support of the episcopate. This fund, which stands on the books of the Treasurer of the Board of Trustees at over $50,000, is said to be mainly, if not entirely, invested in Western securities, which yield little or no income. It is further stated that the salary of the Bishop for several quarters has been personally advanced by the Treasurer, John L. Farwell of Claremont. There is some anxiety on the part of the officers of the diocese lest a portion of the principal has been lost. At any rate the question of calling a special convention of the diocese is already under consideration.

This financial condition is said to have been brought about by the hard times, and all interested are much concerned regarding what the outcome will be. Bishop Niles is expected home from Paris in about two weeks, and matters will be pretty fully held in his confidence as to the integrity of the Board of Trustees of which Farwell is a member, but the impression among the Episcopalians here is that the episcopate fund has suffered a serious loss.

The last annual report of the diocese did not contain the usual report of the Trustees, although the Secretary of the convention waited a long time for it, which should have been included in the publication. The Journal reporter was informed this evening that the Trustees' report has not yet made its appearance, although it is about six months overdue. It is understood, however, that Mr. Farwell is preparing a statement of the condition of the fund.

The late George O'cott of Charlestown was a member of the Board of Trustees, but it is not believed that his death in any way complicated matters. For years the fund yielded an annual income of 10 per cent., afterward it dropped to 8, and from time to time it was still further reduced. It is only just to Mr. Farwell to state that he gave in various ways to the fund some $10,000, more than any other person. In quite a number of instances where the parishes and missions were unable to raise their full quota for the fund, Mr. Farwell personally assisted them to one-half the amount.

Some of these churches are now able to and probably will make up the deficit which Mr. Farwell advanced. It is understood today that there was a conference in Concord of several officials of the diocese, and that the question of calling a special convention was discussed, with the prevailing opinion that it would be best not to take definite action until Bishop Niles returns.

OLIVER WALTON PRESIDENT.

Meeting of the Massachusetts Under-Tinkers' Association at Fitchburg.

(Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.) Fitchburg, Mass., May 16.—About 50 members of the Massachusetts Undertakers' Association attended the fourth annual convention here in Y. M. C. A. Hall today.

President M. W. Cummings of Fitchburg presided. Mayor Moulton opened the convention with an address of welcome, and Rev. Frank Rector, pastor of the Baptist Church, offered prayer.

The President made an address, in which he argued that a permit from any town or city ought to be sufficient to carry a body to its destination in going through other cities or States. The Secretary's report showed a membership of 214.

The following committees were appointed: Finance—Lewis L. Jones, Boston; Michael J. Pugh, Waltham; Thomas Nolan, Brockton; Nomination—F. A. Dickinson, Springfield; C. E. Tripp, Woburn; E. H. Marsh, Somerville; T. H. Murphy, Worcester; A. M. Sproy, Andover. The following named

Encouraging Report of the Board of Missions

Much Business at Second Day of Diocesan Convention

New Standing Committee and Other Officers Chosen

At 9 o'clock Thursday morning the delegates to the Episcopal Convention met in Trinity Church, and after brief services repaired to the chapel. Bishop Lawrence called the meeting to order at 9.45.

The minutes of Wednesday were read by Rev. Leander C. Winchester.

Resolutions of sympathy for Bishop Clark of Rhode Island, who is sick, were adopted.

Rev. Charles H. Leary of Taunton, who has been Treasurer for 21 years, was nominated Treasurer and elected without ballot.

Dr. Brooks then moved that the Treasurer's salary be raised from $100 to $200. Adopted.

Rev. Edmund Farwell Slafter of Boston was re-elected Registrar of the Convention. The polls were then declared open by Bishop Lawrence, and the balloting proceeded for Standing Committee.

After the balloting closed Dr. Reginald H. Howes read the following report:

Report of Missions.

Financially the year has been more successful than any year in the last ten, except the year ending in 1889, but this success is due largely to facts which helped to make the preceding year much the worst of the ten, as well as to large individual gifts. By the closing of the account earlier than usual last year, about $3000 properly belonging to that year was thrown into this. The actual receipts last year were $6574 97, this year $18,331 41. The average ordinary annual receipts for the nine years ending in 1894 were $10,350 90, while for the same time, including the Crocker legacy of $5000, and $11,178 62 raised for special cases like the churches in Fall River and Brockton, they were $12,855 29. Neither last year nor this year fairly be taken alone.

The average of the two years is $12,503.04, or $210 more than the average ordinary receipts of the nine previous years, and only $50 less than the average total receipts for that time, including the Crocker legacy and the specials for Fall River and Brockton. The year's expenses, which were larger than ever before, have been met, and the deficit in income, which was $2689.32 at the beginning of the year, has been reduced to $1946.12, so that we have great reason to be encouraged.

The amounts asked from the archdeacons were much more than they had ever received before. Worcester raised $906.51, or $156.51 more than the board asked. Springfield raised only $33.04 less than it was asked for, only two parishes failing to raise their quota. The board asked for $2560, but the archdeacon apportioned among the parishes only $2144.50. The parishes have succeeded in securing a special $1750 for the church. Lenox $12.46 more than they were asked for, or, including that special, $262.46 more.

$14,000 Needed.

The board will need at least $14,000 this year unless its work is to be cut down, and it will need to be safe against such large outlays from individual and miscellaneous sources as in the year just ended, so that the total to be raised by the Archdeaconries cannot be diminished though some contribution may be necessary. The board believes that by prompt, intelligent and flowers, while their own conventional daintiness also loses by the contact. Another reason for choosing clear-glass vases and jars is that through them we can catch glimpses of stems, and this gives the flowers a more graceful, finished appearance. When opaque vases are used, those in one plain, dull color, which pottery dealers call monotone, are the prettiest, a contrasting tint to the main color of the blossoms being selected. Imagine a dull-blue vase filled with the black-eyed Susans of the roadside, of you have the idea. While there has been a revival recently of the canopied bed, it has been only among the very wealthy classes, who, building new, palace-like houses, have had ample space and a desire for the novel. In the few ancestral halls throughout this country, the four-poster is found canopied and curtained, but rarely found in the modern houses. Hygiene has taught the people, and where one is sleeping in a house, it looks out of place and incongruous. A light canopy with a narrow fall of lace is generally all that is used.

The very best evidence of this hygienic development is noticed in the quick acceptance of the brass bedstead and its sister, the iron bedstead. Any one who has given up the heavy, dust-collecting carved bedstead, and adopted the light, airy, clean, and free from dust-holding brass bedstead, fully appreciates the difference. In not only the care of keeping it sweet and clean, but the pleasantness of occupation. There are no hidden corners, where unwelcome guests may establish themselves—a most important matter to all housekeepers who are subject to the carelessness of indifferent servants.

The brass and iron bedsteads are readily washed, springs easily removed, and air passing in and out and around keeps them above reproach.

Summer bed coverings and dressings receive the same attention that are accorded to draperies and furniture for the same season. The winter spreads are replaced by light dainty, marselles, or moneycomb, the latter shown now in marselles patterns, having taken on a new beauty. Any of these, however, are heavy and are not so desirable as some pretty affair designed at home from curtaining materials.

The most elegant and dressy spreads for the warm season are of embroidered muslin. These come with initials elaborately worked in the centre and a border all around, edged with lace.

Flowered Swiss and organdie muslins, though easily rumpled, make most dainty spreads, and are well worth the care to keep them smooth. Good taste will find a variety of suitable materials which will make into pretty summer spreads with some contriving. The cheap silks, which come in broad widths, can be utilized by putting insertion between the lengths and lace to match on the edges. Some Japanese silks and the crepe cloths are particularly pretty. That with gilt figures, which is used for draperies, is unique. Fine, unbleached sheeting, worked in some similar design, makes an inexpensive spread. Colors to match room decorations are an added daintiness.

Bolsters, in preference to pillows, seem to be the prevailing style, and as they afford simplicity in the spread by having it all in one piece, they are to be commended. So long as the slippery, unsteady, ever-falling pillowsham can be dispensed with, we may welcome the bolster and the spread of one piece.

Mme. Rejane · Plays “Ma Cousine” at Tremont.

Marie Burroughs in "Romeo and Juliet" at the Museum.

The Balcony Scene Played With Remarkable Power.

Mme. Rejane changed her bill at the Tremont last evening, and gave evident pleasure to a fine audience by another exhibition of her consummate powers as a comedienne. The oftener one sees this really charming woman the more agreeable is her art. The entire absence of the appearance of acting is as astonishing as it is delightful. The complete work is seen,¹ but the method is not apparent. The picture is there, finished, beautiful and admirable, but the brushes, the palette, are not visible. The highest art is the concealment of art, and Mme. Rejane, with a genius for the work of the comedienne, finished and polished like a Damascus blade, with no rough edge to annoy and fret the sensitive soul; delicate and refined as a bit of fragile lace; gifted by nature to appreciate the subtlest appeal to mirth, and with a keen sense of humor, a quality so rare in woman, gave the last evening one of the finest exhibitions of the true spirit of comedy witnessed on the American stage in many a day, and while her play dealt with a subject that involved situations risque in the extreme, such was the delicacy of her art, and the finish of her technique, that one did not see the dirt, he was only absorbed in the enjoyment of the beauty of the picture in its entirety.

The true artist was seen in every movement. Her hands were as eloquent as words, expressing in exquisite harmony the thought of the author, which was conveyed to the spectator before the sound of the voice could reach him. It was not a studied effort, or at least it seemed to the spectator to be spontaneous, untrammelled and free from conventionality. And yet what weary days and nights did that woman spend over her tasks before she reached this height of art, before she could produce this finished picture, with no trace of the method left to show us how it was accomplished!

The play was Melhac's comedy in three acts, "Ma Cousine," written especially for Mme. Rejane. It is based on Parisian life in the upper Bohemian set—the set in which artists, actors, nobles and men of wealth recently met during the Second Empire. The aristocracy is of that mushroom period, and does not compare favorably with that of the old school. Mlle. Riquette (Rejane's role) is an actress, and, like the better class of her profession during the two Empires, was received as an intimate among the nobility. Chamcourier is an amateur playwright, stage-struck and blind to what goes on under his very nose, while his wife, so preoccupied with the insipidity of society, is unwilling to risk anything for a new sensation. no matter from what point one entered the grand hall, during this novel fair, the bustle and confusion attracted the attention of the young people, and caused them to forget their morning design, and to leave that side of the Moorish design, and to the south side of the hall, across the top of which extended the sign, "X-Zalia Medicine Company." But for the sign, the visitor would have been tempted to exclaim that this miniature house, with its beautiful exterior of fluted white, inlaid artistically with designs in royal purple, was a transportation from the semi-barbaric regions of Spain—perhaps a section of the Alhambra or the garden house of some ancient princely Moor. There were the very columns of peculiar and simple beauty, wound about with roses of rare hue; the same odd and symmetrical cornices and entablatures, and there was the same oddly shaped roof, with its upturned decorative crescent, which, centuries ago, sprung up that of a man, and not the complainings of a child who had been thwarted in some childish desire.

A DEBATE FOR

A Bad Break Discovered in Cup Defender.

Work Was Set Back Two Days as a Result.

J. H. Chase Is the Harvard Tennis Champion.

A Move to Get Pool Selling in Connecticut.

(Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.)
Bristol, R. I., May 16.—For several days there has been a noteworthy dearth of news about Defender. This has been only apparent, however, for there has been considerable news, and news of important character, but the newspapers, even those with the superior facilities of the Journal, have been for the first time almost entirely unable to get hold of what was stirring. It has been evident that something was wrong, and that the most strenuous efforts were being made to stop up every possible leak and prevent the slightest information from reaching the outside world. The Journal, however, has faith in the mystery and now is able to explain the apparent lack of news during the past few days. There has been trouble with the work on Defender, and serious trouble, too, causing a most unfortunate setback to the work and occasioning a delay of two whole days. It seems that the chief of one of the gangs of riveters suddenly discovered that quite a space of the plating and frames was warped in board, a large part of the warp being nearly an inch out of the way. The place that was warped extended over the greater part of the midship section and into the after section, ranging from a short distance above the water line down below the bilges. The extent to which the side of the boat was out of line varied considerably. It has taken two days before the frames and plating were forced back into their true position again, and at present extreme care is being taken that there shall be no more trouble in this line. It is stated on good authority that the cause of the warping was that when the plates were put on, and likewise the deck beams, a strain was brought about by the aluminum plates giving way somewhat to the heavy built angle iron body frames, the change taking place so gradually that it was not noticed until about three days ago. There is considerable spring to the hull frames, and they readily warp inward if the most extreme precaution is not taken to keep them in line. It required great force to get them back again into place.

There are intelligent boat builders who think that the designer has gone to the extreme in using so much aluminum on the top sides, judging from the way it has warped. It is possible a little more steel work in place of aluminum would have Chairman Gideon of the L. A. W. Racing Board refuses to divulge any of the results of the investigation now in progress in relation to the amateur standing of John S. Johnson. How the mail vote of the members of the board will result on the case is unknown, but it is rumored that the Racing Board have conclusive evidence of Johnson's violations of the league rules, and that it is likely that he will be suspended for a long term, and his trainer, Thomas Eck, will be expelled from the L. A. W. tracks. Johnson seems confident that his defence will result in clearing him of all charges. He is now training on the Syracuse trotting track, and so confident is he that he will be vindicated that he anticipates competing in the spring circuit races.

Dadde Bald, the Buffalo racer who recently lowered the mile record on the Pacific coast, is expected to compete at Eastern events next month.

At a recent meeting of the Tournament Committee of the Press Cycling Club it was voted to hold the June 17 meet at the Waltham Bicycle Park.

Yesterday was a busy day for the members of the Falcon racing team. Owing to the delay of their baggage they could do no work, and on that account the time was devoted to sight-seeing. The early part of the forenoon was passed in viewing the points of interest in Boston. While on the way to Bicycle Row the work on the highway attracted their attention and interrupted them. Going up the row many old acquaintances were renewed and a number of new ones made. The afternoon was passed at Keim's New Theatre in the company of L. F. Jackson of the Press and the cycle team, the evening the Boston papers were the editors of Mr. Edward F. Rose, Manager of the Castle Square Theatre. Among those who composed the party were Otto Zeigler, the "California Demon," C. C. Harbottle, the Canadian champion; Clint R. Coulter, "The Trans-continent Tourist," F. F. Foster of the Olympic A. C. of San Francisco, and all-round champion of the Lincoln road race; Sam W. J. Jackson of the Waltham track; and L. F. Jackson of the Press Cycle Club. The visitors were much pleased with the performance of "Bocaccio," and expressed the opinion that they were more than favorably impressed with their first visit to the Hub. Manager E. H. Tatham of the Falcon team was with the party throughout the day, and as usual, kept a watchful eye on the crackerjacks, who were surrounded by a throng of admiring wheelmen wherever they went.

MOVE FOR POOL SELLING.

Will Try to Push a Bill Through Connecticut Legislature.

(Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.)
Hartford, Conn., May 16.—The friends of pool selling at horse races have taken a new tack and now think they will get a bill through the Legislature repealing the prohibitive law passed two years ago. The new scheme is a local one, it proposes on the statute books. The provision in question is modeled after the local option liquor law. Towns shall decide for themselves whether they want pools sold at horse races within their limits just as they decide the question of license or not. It is believed that such a bill would pass the Legislature with a rush. The result of course would be pool selling on every track in the State Charter Oak Park managers are credited with having figured out the new scheme.

HARVARD TENNIS CHAMPION.

J. H. Chase Defeats J. B. Reed and

Takes the Honors—Both of '95.
J. H. Chase, '95, defeated J. B. Reed, '95, in the tennis tournament at Harvard yesterday, thereby winning the championship of the university. The two men were evenly matched and played much the same style of game. The match was very exciting. The score was 6-4, 6-3, 6-1, 8-6. The consolation prize in the preliminary round was also played. J. A. Thompson beat W. T.

are ever loyal and obedient to him, for obedience is easy and delightful when it is inspired by love. (Applause.)
"And now allow me, most reverend brothers in Christ, to offer you my most sincere congratulation on this auspicious occasion. In the name of the most reverend apostolic delegate, in the name of the most reverend and right reverend colleagues, and in my own. I well know how distasteful to you is any personal allusion to yourself; but there are times and occasions when private and personal feelings must be sacrificed to the imperative demands of public recognition. And this is one of those supreme moments of your life, when you are placed in the hands of your friends. (Applause and laughter.)
"We have learned to admire and love you for your sterling honesty of purpose, for your candor and straightforwardness of character, and for all those qualities of mind and heart that make the man of high public repute. We have placed upon you as a judicious counselor. But now we claim you as our Nestor in years, as well as in wisdom.
"May your years be prolonged like those of your namesake and patron St. John, the Evangelist. May you live to celebrate your diamond jubilee. May you long be spared to be the ornament of your clergy, the guide to your people and the pride and glory of the American episcopate." (Applause and cheers.)

For Boston.

Alderman Horace G. Allen, who represented the city of Boston, referred fittingly to the celebration, to the growth of Boston during Archbishop Williams' episcopate, and testified to the great respect in which His Grace is held by the people of Boston, even by those who are outside of the pale of the Catholic Church. He alluded upon the Archbishop's characteristic adherence to methods of peace and conservatism, which have done much to endear him to the citizens.
Lettens regretting inability to attend were sent to Vice General Byrne by United States Senators George F. Hoar and Henry Cabot Lodge and by Chief Justice Field of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts.
Today is the proper anniversary of the Archbishop's ordination as priest. The members of the local religious orders and delegations of pupils from the academies, high schools, parochial schools and orphan asylums, in all of which His Grace is deeply interested, will assemble at the Cathedral at 10 o'clock. High mass will be celebrated by Rt. Rev. John Brady, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, and, of course, the bishop will hear it from his throne. The sermon will be preached by Bishop John J. Keane, rector of the Catholic University of America.

Churchy Pomp.

Not since the occasion of the Third Plenary Council of Baltimore, when all the Archbishops and Bishops of the Roman Catholic Church of America assembled in the cross-shaped church on the hill above Cathedral Square, has such a sight of churchly splendor been seen in the country as that which attended the celebration at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross Thursday morning of the introductory service to the sacerdotal golden jubilee of the Most Rev. John Joseph Williams, D.D., Archbishop of Boston. The friends of the venerable prelate were present in crushing numbers, and in spite of the vastness of the nave and the space allotted to both the priests and the laity was too meagre to satisfy the demand on it.

The lofty sanctuary of the church was foregone with the light which streamed from the stained windows. On the mingled altar burned two rows of enormous candles and in the spaces between them which bowed almost imperceptibly beneath the weight of huge lilacs. At various points about the sanctuary—at the foot of the pulpit, at the altar, and near the altar—were placed dense spots of green, tufted with the abundant spools of flowers, and from the tiny chandeliers which hang against the dull bronze walls fell clumps of

They are fully aware that you have long and faithful stewards of the Holy See, and that you have received too many evidences of the lasting esteem of the Catholic laity to need any formal assurance of the joy and thanksgiving which animate the hearts of nearly 600,000 Catholics in your Archdiocese on this occasion. But it is natural that these loving sentiments should seek and find expression in this grand jubilee, and be mingled with the tributes of affection and devotion lovingly tendered you by the hierarchy, the religious orders, and the representative Catholic societies.
"Fifty years of labor and self-sacrifice; 50 years of faithful service, ministering to the spiritual needs of the people; 50 years of patient study of unemitting toil, of constantly increasing responsibilities and patiently borne trials; 50 years earnestly devoted to the strengthening of the spiritual edifice in which the cure and salvation of souls has been the constant inspiration and soliloquy.
"As was substantially stated in the former address, instead of a Catholic population of 50,000, as in 1845, we have 590,000 today; instead of 13 churches and 25 priests, there are 187 churches and 421 priests. Add to this equipment the diocesan seminary with its 130 theological students, eight academies, 71 convents, 10 asylums, eight hospitals and 97 schools, accommodating 35,000 children.
"When we consider this marvelous growth, we cannot but thank God for the accomplishment of such great work under your wise administration, and in our admiration exclaim in the apt words of the poet:
"His name a great example stands to show
How strangely high endeavors may be blest
Where play and valor jointly go."
(Applause.)

Archbishop Responds.

To these addresses the Archbishop responded in simple terms, commenting in a few words on the occasion. "I must say this is the noisiest time I've had in 50 years," which provoked a renewal of it. He told his clergy, as he has often told them, that in their faith and ability he placed full confidence and reliance, feeling, at the same time, that they regarded him similarly. He said to the laity that without the aid of their unemitting zeal he could not have accomplished all that he had. Then he thanked individually the dignitaries who have come to honor him. Then the cheers were again renewed.

Gift From the Pope—Santoli's Address.

Archbishop Santoli, when presented, read the letter which accompanied the gift of Pope Leo to Archbishop Williams, which had just been received from Rome. Then he gave to His Grace the medal of gold which bore the message of loving congratulation from His Holiness. Afterward, turning to His Grace, the Papal Ablegate said: "I also tender my congratulations and felicitations to Archbishop Williams, and his Secretary, Dr. Rooker, then read his address, which, substantially, was as follows: "I do not believe that I ever better fulfilled the intention and desire of the Holy Father, Leo XIII., than when participating in the joyous festivities attending the celebration of the jubilee of an American Archbishop or Bishop, and representing by my presence the Supreme Pontiff, and giving voice to the sentiments of loving congratulation with which he rejoices in the happy completion of so many years spent in the service of God and His church. For if the Pope, in the fullness of his power and of his apostolic care, share with every Bishop in union with the Holy See the joys, as well as the sorrows, of this life, he feels a special interest in the fortunes of the American Episcopate. This interest he has clearly and solemnly expressed in his last encyclical to this country, making his own the words of St. Gregory: 'My honor is the unhindered vigor of my brethren. Then I am truly honored when to each one due honor is not denied.'

Holy Father Loves Him.

"How deep and sincere is the affection of the Holy Father for the venerable Archbishop of Boston. I myself can bear witness, five years ago when for the first time, the Pope sent me to this country, after having charged me to bear his paternal salutations to the Most Eminent Cardinals and Archbishop of Baltimore, and to all the bishops, should be united in that great celebration of the centenary of that great

HITS WITH MEN ON BASES.

That Is How the Phillies Earned Their Victory Over the Spiders.
Cleveland, O., May 16.—Cleveland could not bat the ball this afternoon. The Phillies earned their victory by making their hits when men were on bases. Cuppy was injured in the first inning by a base hit that struck him, and Sullivan finished the game. Blake batted for Sullivan in the ninth. The weather was very cold. At-

John Quinn of Cambridge and James Dietrick of Newark Secured.
(Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal.)
Portland, Me., May 15.—Manager Garity of the Portland Base Ball team returned today from a trip spent in endeavoring to secure new material. He went as far as Worcester. Two players were obtained. John Quinn comes from Cambridge, Mass., and although he has never been in the professional ranks, is highly recommended. He is to play left field, and will report in this city on Saturday.
James Dietrick of Newark, N. J., will cover third base. He is a hard hitter. These will necessitate a few changes, but not more than one release. Magoo, who has been playing at third base, will be shifted to second, which is his natural position, and Webster will cross over from left field to right.
The Pawtucket club, which is playing a series of two games in this city, is in bad shape. Manager Bacon said this morning that he was confident that President Young would decide the Hamlin case favorable to the New England League.

OUTPLAYED AT EVERY POINT.

Bangor Deservedly Secured the Game From New Bedford.
Bangor, Me., May 16.—Bangor outplayed New Bedford at every point this afternoon and won a very interesting game. The weather was cold and rain fell at intervals during the first part of the game. Friend aroused the ire of the spectators by throwing his bat in front of Hayes while the latter was catching a foul fly. The features of the game were three lightning double plays by the home team. Welsh made a difficult stop and Murphy a hard catch of a foul fly.
